Ottawa flu cases up to seven

HEALTH After receiving laboratory confirmations, Ottawa Public Health yesterday confirmed additional cases of influenza A (H1N1), also known as swine flu. As of yesterday, there are now seven confirmed cases in Ottawa.

The case histories of these individuals are consistent with the majority of cases in Ontario in that they all experienced mild symptoms and did not require hospitalization, public health said.

Medical officer of health Dr. Isra Levy said more cases will likely be found.

"We continue to anticipate that additional cases of novel H1N1 influenza A virus will be confirmed in the city," said Levy.

Swine flu was first found in Ottawa May 5.

"Ottawa Public Health is continuing with enhanced surveillance measures ... to protect the health and well-being of all residents and visitors to Ottawa," said Levy.

Rise in unwed mothers

Study shows shift in views on marriage, expert says

KRISTEN THOMPSON
Metro Canada

More Canadian women are giving birth out of wedlock than ever before, with three out of 10 babies being born to unmarried moms, according to a new study.

Thirty per cent of births in Canada in 2007 were to unwed women, up from 12 per cent in 1980, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in the United States.

The upward trend was consistent in most developed countries, with levels doubling and tripling in some cases.

In Norway, the rate climbed to 54 per cent in 2007, up from 15 per cent in 1980.

Elizabeth Saewyc, a nursing professor at the University of British Columbia, said the changing rates can be attributed to a shift in social values away from marriage toward cohabitation.

"It's becoming more OK (for unmarried couples) to live together, so raising children together is more socially sanctioned," Saewyc said.

She added that teen pregnancy rates have been declining while birth rates are increasing among adult women.

She said half of non-marital Canadian births in 1970 were to teens, and in 2007 that rate dropped to less than a quarter. On the other hand, more women between 25 and 40 are having babies than in the recent past.

"Not being married doesn't mean it's not a two-parent household," Saewyc added. "Two engaged parents who are committed to taking care of their children does not necessarily require them to be legally married."

The high and low

- Iceland had the highest rate of non-marital births in 2007, at 66 per cent, according to the Centers for Disease Control.
- Two per cent of Japanese babies were born to unwed moms in the same time period.

Kilrea grilled about email leaked to reporter

TIM WIECLAWSKI
tim.wieclawski@metronews.ca

TRIAL Two-time mayoral candidate Terry Kilrea spent his third day in the witness box at Mayor Larry O'Brien's trial, answering questions about how his allegations of bribery against O'Brien got into the news in 2007.

Defence lawyer Michael Edelson focused on how Ottawa Citizen reporter Gary Dimmock obtained a confidential email exchange between Kilrea and Ottawa-West Nepean MP John Baird, that was published a week before OPP investigators executed a search warrant to obtain those files.

Kilrea said repeatedly in court that he did not give Dimmock those files.

According to Edelson, Dimmock told police that he obtained the emails in a "brown envelope, downtown, from a very tall and thin grey-haired woman."

Edelson suggested that Dimmock lied to police to protect Kilrea and his common-law spouse, Dina Koukis.

Kilrea insisted that neither he nor Koukis gave the emails to Dimmock.

The charges against O'Brien stem from allegations that he offered assistance in getting Kilrea an appointment to the National Parole Board, if Kilrea withdrew from the 2006 mayoral race.

Edelson has yet to specifically ask Kilrea about the allegations or his interactions with O'Brien.

Kilrea returns to the stand today.

Falun Dafa supporters 'share the joy'

CELEBRATION Hundreds of people travelled from as far as Toronto to "share the joy," as they celebrated World Falun Dafa Day on Parliament Hill yesterday.

The practitioners and supporters of Falun Dafa — an Asian-rooted system that teaches people to incorporate truthfulness, benevolence and forbearance in their lives — held a parade in the downtown core, followed by music and dance performances on Parliament Hill "to share the happiness," said volunteer Steven Liu.

Liu, a Toronto Transit Commission driver, has been practising Falun Dafa since 1998 and it changed his life, he said.

There are hundreds of practitioners in Ottawa, said event organizer and volunteer Grace Wollensak.

She said the event got support from politicians, including Prime Minister Stephen Harper, who sent his greetings, and Acting Mayor Michel Bellemare, who proclaimed yesterday Falun Dafa Day in Ottawa.

Command 'behind the scenes'

TRACEY TONG

Many people don't know what Canada Command is or what it does.

But in a crisis — be it a natural disaster or a need for security at the 2010 Olympics in Vancouver or the G8 summit — when it really counts, the Canadian Forces organization is there.

The organization — which monitors developments across Canada and assists the RCMP, Canadian Forces and search and rescue responders in times of need — often works behind the scenes, said Canada Command Lieut. Noel Paine.

"It works with others in the Canadian government to look after the safety of Canadians," said Paine. "We ensure Canadians are safe and secure, but we're behind the scenes."

So it may not get out there that Canada Command got a new commander yesterday.

Vice-Admiral Bruce Donaldson replaced Vice-Admiral Dean McFadden as commander of Canada Command in a change of command ceremony held in Ottawa.

Canada Command has lead responsibility for routine and contingency Canadian Forces operations in Canada and continental North America. Everyday, thousands of sailors, soldiers, and air force personnel stand ready to assist Canadians in need and to help its neighbours to the south, the organization said. "It's a huge responsibility," said Paine.

McFadden, who will assume the duties of chief of the Maritime staff later this summer, said members of Canada Command often don't realize their impact.

"It's a commander's job to point that out and sing their praises," he said. "The members of Canada Command make the lives of Canadians safer."

Donaldson said he was confident that Canadian Forces is ready to protect the safety of Canadians whenever they are needed.

"We're very much an insurance policy," said Lt.-Cmdr Diane Grover. "We're always there, ready to protect and defend."

Pedestrian in serious condition after collision

HOSPITALIZED A city woman is in serious condition after she was hit by a car on the Vanier Parkway yesterday morning.

At 8:28 a.m., Ottawa paramedics got a call of a female pedestrian who was struck by a car on the Vanier Parkway at Queen Mary, said paramedic spokesman J.P. Trotter.

When paramedics arrived at the scene, they found a woman in her 30s who was unconscious, Trotter said.

The woman, who was believed to have been crossing the road at the time of the incident, suffered serious head injuries, a fractured clavicle and a separated shoulder.

She regained consciousness en route to the hospital, Trotter said.

Persons of interest sought in art theft

When Gordon Harrison Gallery director and owner Phil Emond walked into his shop on April 29, he immediately noticed an empty space on the wall.

His first thought was that the gallery at 100 Murray St. had sold a painting, and was shocked when the employee said they hadn't.

After reviewing surveillance videos for the store, Emond believes that two individuals stole the missing painting.

"It happened in about two minutes," he said. "They were very calm. They didn't run."

Emond said the painting is an original landscape oil painting by Ottawa artist Gordon Harrison. The painting, which is unframed and measures 16 by 16 inches, is entitled Lake View and is of Toronto's High Park.

The painting is valued at $1,000.

Emond said he later learned that other galleries in Ottawa had suffered thefts.

City police yesterday asked for the public's assistance in identifying two persons of interest in the April 29 incident.

Police are seeking a white male between 30 and 40 years old, five feet, nine-to-11 inches tall, with short brown hair, and a white female, approximately 35 to 45 years old, five feet, five-to-six inches tall, with chin-length brown hair.

For some city residents, the weather has just gotten nice enough to get outdoors.

But for area athletes, training was already well underway as they kick off the area's multi-sport race season this weekend.

In its 12th year, the Early Bird Triathlon and Duathlon is both an early season warmup for avid participants and a first-time event for beginners, event organizers said.

Races include the sprint and long triathlons, the sprint and long duathlons as well as a swim-cycle event and the Dr. Freedhoff Try-a-Tri Challenge for beginners.

Race director Eric Colard said although a triathlon may seem intimidating to first-timers, the Early Bird is as much a learning experience as it is a competition.

"I've done everything from spring triathlons to the Ironman, and sometimes you can get jaded, but seeing first-timers cross the finish line smiling as if they've just won Olympic gold — well, that's the best part of the event."

Close to 1,000 participants are slated to cross the finish lines in the event's 10 different races.

Races begin Saturday morning at the Carleton University campus. Colonel By Drive will be closed from Pretoria Bridge to Hogsback Road from 6 a.m. to 1 p.m. in order to provide a safe course for participants and volunteers.

Conservatives start attack ad campaign

POLITICS The Conservative party launched a series of ads attacking the opposition Liberals yesterday in a bid to recover lost ground in public support ahead of a possible election.

The Liberals have threatened to try to topple the minority government by mid-year, and while most analysts think that will not happen, the Conservatives decided they needed to cut into consistent leads the Liberals have scored in opinion polls.

If the Liberals decided to pull the plug on the government, re-elected in October with a strengthened minority in Parliament, they would need the backing of the other two opposition parties, and such support is by no means certain.

Colour a barrier: Study

Darker immigrants face more alienation, survey says

Vanessa Kirunda is the last person you'd expect to be looked down on.

Poised, articulate, educated and confident, Kirunda, a black woman, can dissect and analyze why Canadians treat her differently. But all bets were off when schoolmates called her 10-year-old son Sean a racial epithet. Three times. By children of three different backgrounds.

"I anticipated this would happen, but it breaks my heart. Something is wrong when children say these things. On top of everything, I'm not going to have my child degraded."

Kirunda and her son, Canadian citizens who emigrated from Kenya six years ago, face exactly the sort of walls a major study of multiculturalism and society pinpoints.

Crunching thousands of numbers from 41,666 people interviewed in nine languages, the just-published study found skin colour — not religion, not income — was the biggest barrier to immigrants feeling they belonged here. And the darker the skin, the bigger the alienation.

"We were surprised that religion didn't have more effect," said lead author Jeffrey Reitz. "It came down to race, with Asian people reporting some and with young black males the most stigmatized. The data is consistent with that."

"We tend to believe racism is a minor problem in Canada, of little consequence. Someone looked at them funny. Or that many immigrants are doing well, so it must be their fault if they aren't. There is a reluctance to investigate the issue," said Reitz.

The University of Toronto professor of ethnic, immigration and pluralism studies added that a lack of trust was also higher among the successful, Canadian-born, Canadian-educated children of visible minority immigrants.

emerge as Asia's emerging powerhouse faces economic slowdown and instability in neighbouring Pakistan.

The projections could spark market jitters in the days ahead of the official results, due on Saturday.

Exit polls have had a mixed record in the past among the electorate of more than 700 million people. They were way off the mark in the last 2004 general election.

Prime Minister Manmohan Singh's Congress party-led coalition is ahead with 185-205 seats in the 543-member lower house of parliament, an exit poll by CNN-IBN television said. An alliance led by the opposition Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) would take 165 to 185 seats, leaving both the main political formations far short of the 272 needed for a majority.

"We are looking at political uncertainty and horse-trading," said Amulya Ganguli, a New Delhi-based political commentator. If confirmed by actual results, the outcome would mean a fall in Congress alliance seats compared with 2004 and a boost in seats for the BJP-led alliance, muddying waters further.

SRI LANKA Shelling killed a Red Cross worker inside Sri Lanka's war zone yesterday, the aid agency said, while troops and the Tamil Tigers battled in an intensifying fight to the finish of Asia's longest modern war.

The pro-rebel website and a government-employed doctor in the war zone whose personal security is at the whim of the Tigers, said at least 38 people were killed in an attack on a makeshift medical clinic.

The military called the report fabricated.

The seeming inevitability of a final, bloody confrontation has grown amid Western outrage over attacks that killed hundreds at the weekend and which aid agencies said was making it impossible to help those people still being held by the Tigers.

The International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), for days unable to ferry out wounded and deliver aid by boat because of fighting, said a 31-year-old local staff member and his mother were killed by a shell.

The ICRC is the only foreign aid agency inside the war zone.

the end of voting in neighbouring India's month-long election yesterday was likely to usher in an all-out attack by Sri Lanka to wipe out the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) and bring a conventional end to a 25-year war.

Two senior military sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said small-arms battles were picking up in the 2.5-square-kilometre coastal strip where the Tigers are cornered. Those sources said no heavy weapons were being used.

It is impossible to verify battlefield accounts, since the war is mostly off-limits to outsiders.

The military says it has not used heavy weapons in months, while the LTTE has accused them of doing so repeatedly. The United Nations and others have accused the two sides of harming civilians, which both deny.

U.S. Coast Guard saves 17 after boat sinks

U.S. Coast Guard crews pulled 17 survivors and 10 bodies from the Atlantic Ocean yesterday, hours after a boat believed to be carrying illegal Haitian migrants sank off the Florida coast.

Coast Guard Capt. James Fitton said the victims had been floating in the water for about 10 hours before they were spotted at about midday by a passing boater who alerted the authorities. "One of the survivors told us they left Bimini sometime last night en route to south Florida. Around 2 a.m. their boat either hit something or capsized," Fitton said. "The indication is that it was a smuggling event."

A Coast Guard rescue of the victims was concentrated in the water about 15 miles off Boynton Beach, a town some 30 miles north of Fort Lauderdale, the Coast Guard said.

Fitton said 17 people, including five taken to local hospitals, were plucked alive from the water. Ten others died, he said.

Hubble Space Telescope brought into space shuttle

ASTRONAUTS Space shuttle astronauts plucked the Hubble Space Telescope from orbit yesterday and tucked the observatory into their ship's cargo bay for a long-overdue overhaul.

Speeding through space, commander Scott Altman manoeuvred the shuttle Atlantis to within about 35 feet of the telescope as crewmate Megan McArthur used the ship's robot arm to latch on to the telescope at 1:14 p.m. EDT as the spacecraft soared far above Australia.

"Houston, Atlantis. Hubble has arrived onboard Atlantis," Altman radioed to Mission Control.

NASA last visited Hubble in 2002 and had planned to return for a fifth servicing call a couple of years later, but the destruction of the shuttle Columbia as it re-entered the Earth's atmosphere in 2003 derailed those plans.

The mission was restored after engineers came up with a rescue plan in case Atlantis suffered damage during launch like that blamed for the Columbia disaster, which killed its seven crew members.

A second shuttle is poised for liftoff from the Kennedy Space Center in Florida in case the astronauts need another ride home, as Atlantis is flying too far from the International Space Station for the crew to seek refuge there in case of an emergency.

Steve Collins

metronews.ca/collins

As we continue our efforts this week to find the good in these tight-money times, it only makes sense to contemplate the unbuyables — health, happiness and of course love.

On the relationship front, I could offer tips on romantic outings to the local Service Canada office to file for Employment Insurance together, or getting reacquainted with your parents as you move back into their basement, but the secret to the SunnySide Method™ is perspective.

If your job or savings

On the web
• For more views on relating, go to Love Bytes at metronews.ca/blogs don't bear unpanicked scrutiny these days, you might find it reassuring to take stock of your personal life. Then again, maybe this is the last thing you want to think about. There is, after all, when considering one's relationships, a tendency to dwell on the problems and the irritants, no matter how minor. Relationship columnists, always in search of a conflict on which to hang the story, are doubly guilty of this.

Chances are though, if you really think about it, things are more right than wrong. For every one of your love's grating eccentricities, there are probably three everyday kindnesses you forgot that you take for granted. If not, what are you twits still doing together?

And some of us are better at this than others, but it might even be appropriate while taking stock, to spare a thankful thought for your exes. No matter how badly it ended, you've still got the memories, whether bitter-sweet or giddily pornographic, and everything you learned from each other — even if in the end it had to be learned the hard way.

Your important relationships aren't limited to the romantic, either. Your friends and family, the softball team or the co-workers (if you still have co-workers, of course) all populate that vital non-economic part of life.

For every small way these people drive you crazy, they make up for it by lending a hand, sharing a laugh, making you see things differently.

If brute optimism isn't enough to get you through, the occasional piece of statistical evidence pops up to suggest we're getting better at getting along.

For example, in new research from the University of Lethbridge, Canadian teenagers are reporting better relationships with their parents today than any teens in the last 30 years. Arguments are down, and mutual enjoyment and understanding up, according to the national survey.

Less dysfunction at home should mean less mess later, as it's striking how much the dynamics of future relationships resemble those first ones within your family, so this is an encouraging trend.

Steve Collins offers his best guesses on relationships for Metro every two weeks.

I live in the Caldwell community. Throughout Ottawa, this area has a bad reputation.

This year, the neighbourhood has a Tenant Association (Bellevue Manor Tenants Association). We are slowly but surely trying to get the tenants more involved and making the neighbourhood more family oriented. On April 16, we had the launch of the Clean Sweep kickoff in our area.

On Canada Day we are having a huge celebration in which we plan to have the majority of the tenants attending.

Things like that are helping us on our mission of making the neighbourhood a better place.

With Iggy at the helm the Liberals are ready to lead

Now I feel confident that the Liberal party is ready to lead the country once again under Mr. Michael Ignatieff. It has been some very rough years for them and Canadians were not ready for uncertain leader under Mr. (Stéphane) Dion. It is very unfortunate but reality comes with a price tag.

Mr. Dion, no matter how good a person he comes across as, he did not have what it takes to be a leader.

I am sure he can be a very effective cabinet minister but leadership was not his game. Now, with all that behind, Liberals need to connect the dots across the country. Canadians want a leader they feel comfortable with, is approachable and can believe in as well. The time has come for Liberals to build once again as the governing party of Canada.

Sheeple sheds light on MP's time with PM

Garth Turner

"Garth who"

So, the official response to my latest book by the Prime Minister's Office summed things up nicely.

I couldn't have put it better myself.

After all, these were the guys who'd obsessed about what to do with me, how to stop my blogging, from talking to reporters, from webcasting in the foyer of the House of Commons and from scrutinizing my own party's policies, for the entire time I was a Stephen Harper MP.

It was just days after I was elected again in 2006 that Harper's right-hand man, chief of staff Ian Brodie, ordered me to go offline — or be punted from my own party. Ten months later, he and his boss did just that. And when they did, for the high crime of opening my mouth and having an opinion, they alleged instead I'd broken caucus confidentiality in writing about party secrets.

This is what makes the reaction to my book, "Sheeple," ironically tasty. In Harper's caucus, there are no secrets. There's nothing to keep confidential. MPs aren't allowed to speak without prior permission. They know the consequences of questioning the leader or his dictates. Debate does not exist. During my time in that room there was no free discussion on Afghanistan, same-sex marriage, gun control or the environment.

This is because in Harper's Canada, MPs don't matter. Our prime minister believes that Conservatives elected go to Ottawa to work for him, and the party. They're employees, to be cajoled, herded, muscled, or in the case of me and Maritime MP Bill Casey, fired for insubordination.

My deep mistake was to believe members of Parliament work for the people who send them there. And that is what I told the guy. The people are the ones an MP must answer to, report to and stand before. The job of the elected is to represent the voters to Ottawa, not come home and tell the citizens what to believe.

In the end, I had to go. The PM was sick of my blog and my lip, and made a fine example of me by tossing me out of his caucus, then out of the party I had belonged to longer than he.

And although I had served two previous Conservative prime ministers, sat at the cabinet table and even been a leadership contender, Stephen Harper dropped the political nuke as a signal to the sheeple in his flock that anyone who displeased him would be dooced.

And then dismissed — like the voters.

Garth Turner served as an MP twice, last elected in 2006 as a Conservative before being ejected from his party. He is a best-selling author of personal finance books. His latest book, "Sheeple" is about his political journey.

Gadgets hurt efficiency gains, says new report

Energy use could triple by 2030, IEA warns

Demand for energy-thirsty gadgets such as cellphones, iPods, PCs and plasma TVs is undoing efficiency gains elsewhere, the International Energy Agency said yesterday.

The Paris-based energy adviser to 28 developed countries urged governments in a report to keep pace with the invention of new consumer devices when crafting efficiency standards, and implored people to make thrifter choices.

The IEA warned that otherwise energy used by household electronic devices could triple by 2030.

Energy consumption is associated with carbon

Consumption

Residential electricity consumption has been growing in all regions of the world at an average of 3.4 per cent a year since 1990, the International Energy Agency report said.

emissions because most electricity is generated from burning high-carbon fossil fuels such as coal and natural gas.

But the world doesn't have to curb an insatiable appetite for ever more clever, exciting or fashionable gadgets, provided people choose the most efficient versions available, said IEA analyst Paul Waide.

He said that governments have generally been reluctant to introduce policies for these types of products because they've been changing so much.

Technologies were already available to improve efficiency by at least 40 per cent across most appliances, the report found, but uptake depends on choices by fickle consumers.

"The extent of savings is large; however, the energy and financial savings on individual residential appliances often appear insignificant to consumers," the report said. REUTERS

Pension issue threatens GM Canada

AUTO Pension issues are stymieing efforts to reach a new concession deal between the Canadian Auto Workers union and General Motors Corp. that is needed to keep the automaker's Canadian operations from liquidation, the head of the union said yesterday.

The two sides have until Friday to strike a new cost-cutting deal or the automaker could miss out on billions of dollars in government loans needed to keep GM Canada afloat.

"We're not making much progress at all," CAW president Ken Lewenza said during a break in the negotiations, which have been ongoing since Sunday.

"We're talking to each other, but we've got some major issues."

The biggest hurdle involves the cost of pensions for GM's retired workers, Lewenza said.

GM Canada has been making vehicles for around a century and has about five retirees for every active worker.

Complicating matters is a pension fund shortfall at GM Canada estimated to be as high as $7 billion.

Craig Adams, Bill Guerin, Kris Letang and Jordan Staal also lit the lamp for the Penguins, who took the semifinal series four games to three and will be

The club will rest until opening the Eastern Conference finals this weekend against either the Bruins or Hurricanes, whose own Game 7 takes place tonight in Boston.

Marc-Andre Fleury was rarely tested for his eighth win of this postseason, needing to make just 19 saves.

Alex Ovechkin and Brooks Laich scored for the Capitals, who have dropped two of their last three series-deciding games on home ice and were denied the franchise's third trip to the conference finals.

The setback continued Washington's franchise-long playoff hex against Pittsburgh, as the Caps have lost seven of eight playoff series against the Pens and have also failed to claim victory in three Game 7s.

McGuinty open to helping Balsillie

NHL The provincial government is doing the old spinarama when it comes to financial help for BlackBerry billionaire Jim Balsillie's bid to bring the NHL's Phoenix Coyotes to Hamilton.

In a change of direction from last week, Premier Dalton McGuinty yesterday pointedly did not rule out Queen's Park contributing some of the $120 million Balsillie is apparently seeking for improvements to Copps Coliseum.

"I'm very much in favour of a new hockey team in Ontario," the premier told reporters, insisting while he knew "nothing about" any request for public money for the venture, his door was open.

That's a shift from a week ago when he ruled out any public funding for an NHL team.

"We're not talking about coming to the table with taxpayer dollars here; what we are talking about is a private sector venture, somebody with the resources to bring a franchise to southern Ontario," the premier said May 6.

Jays fall to Yankees

MLB RESULTS

Toronto 2 New York 8

VS

Before last night's game against the Yankees, Jays manager Cito Gaston praised rookie pitcher Scott Richmond for consistently giving his team a chance to win.

But that chance all but evaporated in the second inning when the Yankees tagged Richmond for five runs and rolled to an 8-2 win over the AL's hottest team.

The loss dropped the Jays' record to 23-13, which still led the AL East, but not by much over the Boston Red Sox, who were in California last night playing the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim.

Although Richmond only claimed the final spot in the Jays' starting rotation in the final week of spring training, Gaston said his early season success wasn't surprising.

Richmond, who was voted the AL's rookie of the month for April, entered last night with a 4-1 record and 3.29 ERA. In just over 38 innings, he had recorded 29 strikeouts, tied with Brian Tallet for second on the team behind Roy Halladay.

"He kept us in ball games. He throws strikes," Gaston said before the game. "If you can throw strikes up here (in the major leagues), you can win."

He opened the game throwing still more strikes, both by design and with help from free-swinging Yankees hitters. Richmond earned his 30th strikeout of the season when leadoff hitter Johnny Damon swung at a slider in the dirt. Then he got right fielder Nick Swisher swinging at a 91-m.p.h. fastball.

The Jays' offence, leading the majors with 209 runs through Tuesday, contributed one more in the first inning.

A pair of walks around a fielder's choice put runners on first and second. Aaron Hill reached third on Vernon Wells' fielder's choice, then scored when Yankees first baseman Mark Texiera couldn't scoop Robinson Cano's low throw from the dirt.

But then came the second, when the Yankees squeezed an entire game's worth of extra-base hits into a single inning.

A gracious fireplace is the ideal focal point for a living room. Its architectural presence commands attention, its warmth is a comfort in cooler weather and it provides a natural anchor for the main seating arrangement. It also allows for several options when it comes to arranging furniture. Perhaps one of these three floor plan ideas will spark your own creative space planning.

Formal
The most formal arrangement is to place an identical pair of sofas perpendicular to the fireplace. That creates a strong, immediate impression and emphasizes the mantel's role as focal point. To finish the conversation grouping, you might place two chairs facing the fireplace. Add a large area rug, a central coffee table and end tables to complete the scene.

Semiformal

In similar though more casual fashion, position one sofa perpendicular to the fireplace but arrange a pair of chairs (rather than a second sofa) opposite. That works well if the chairs are placed between the living and dining room or entrance, as it may be preferable to look toward two chair backs and an interesting end table rather than toward a full sofa back.

Casual

For an even more casual arrangement, use only a combination of chairs, as in the photo. Here, the oversize chairs face each other, providing a tête-à-tête spot for the young couple who live in this home. The upholstered ottoman makes it the go-to spot for reading and relaxing. If more seating is required, you could have four chairs facing each other, with a bench facing the mantel.

Opening the cottage

HomeScape

Sylvia Putz

metronews.ca/homescape

Opening up the cottage is a North American ritual and it so happens that the usual time for this is just about any day now.

And when cottagers make their way to their cottages for the first time this year, what will they find? Perhaps a dock that has been damaged by ice, or even swept down the bay, a railing that has been damaged by a fallen tree or a roof damaged by branches brought down by snow. Inside, you may find mouse nests in the cottage linens, mouse droppings in the cupboard, and gnawed through flour containers in the kitchen.

Ah, such are the delights of cottage life. You never know what you'll

Hints and tips

- In the spring, check all pipes and connections before you prime the water pump.
- Visually check exterior wiring to the cottage to spot any fraying or damaged lines before you power up the cottage.
- Wait for the hot water heater to fill up with water before you flip the switch to start it up for the season, or you could burn the heating elements.
- Cut back dead or damaged branches. Also check wood siding for any sign of rot, and pay special attention to caulking around windows. Look on to the roof for missing shingles or fixtures.
- On the interior, inspect for any water damage on ceilings or walls. This can help you spot leaking problems that may not be visible on the outside.
- Clean cupboards and be on the lookout for mouse droppings. If you find them, clean with antiseptic solution and remember to wear a mask.
- Inspect decks and railings and secure any loose planks or handrails.

find on that first trip of the season.

One thing is clear. And that's that people who do a thorough job of preparing for the winter in the fall are a lot less likely to suffer from a nasty surprise, come the cottage-opening season. For example, I once left a rusty old barbecue in the far corner of the porch of my parents' cottage over the winter. It hadn't been used in years and my plan was to take it to the dump in the spring.

I learned there and then that I should have dealt with it in a more timely fashion. When it was time to open the cottage, we discovered we had had a visit(s) from what we judged by the footprints to be a sizable bear. It looked as if it had tipped that old barbecue over, and then proceeded to shove it around the deck with considerable enthusiasm, leaving an indelible mess of soot, coals and ancient grease.

During the fall closing, you've got to be thinking about battening down the hatches, and stowing away stuff securely. Lock up the cottage tightly and put away anything that can be damaged by animals, wind and weather.

And for those people who have not been as conscientious as they should have been about draining pipes, tanks and pumps, I feel bad for you. Cottage opening will likely be a miserable affair, spent fixing burst pipes with a propane torch and solder in the back-bending and spider-webby crawl space.

In fact, leaving anything liquid in the cottage to freeze over the winter is a poor idea. Imagine the delight of finding leaking ketchup bottles and cracked relish bottles in the cupboard, and split shampoo bottles in the bathroom vanity.

The first spears of summer

À la carte

Barb Holland

metronews.ca/alacarte

The first long weekend of the "summer" generally heralds a number of openings — the cottage, Farmers' Markets, firing up the grill and the sightings of the first vegetable of season, asparagus.

In a survey conducted in February 2009 for Weber-Stephen Products Company to determine consumer trends for barbecuing this summer, 68 per cent of Canadians said they prefer grilling in the summer while 32 per cent report grilling year-round. Nine out of 10 Canadians grill with gas; with 83 per cent owning a liquid propane barbecue and 13 per cent use natural gas. Twelve per cent own a charcoal grill.

Asparagus and Prosciutto with Lemon Vinaigrette

Asparagus season is short, usually just four to six weeks, depending on weather and locale, so grill some up soon. This recipe, from a terrific cookbook Weber's Way to Grill, the Step-by-Step Guide to Expert Grilling by Jamie Purviance, would be good with grilled chicken, salmon or pork. Makes 4 servings.

INGREDIENTS:

- 2 tbsp (30 ml) apple cider vinegar
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) finely diced shallot

- 2 tsp (10 ml) finely grated lemon zest
- 1 tsp (5 ml) Dijon mustard
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) extra-virgin olive oil
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) each: kosher salt and freshly ground black

This recipe comes from Weber's Way to Grill.

pepper

- 1 1/2 lbs (750 g) asparagus (about 1-1/2 bunches)
- 1/2 tsp (2 ml) kosher salt
- 4 thin slices prosciutto

METHOD:

Preheat barbecue to medium heat.

In small bowl, whisk vinegar, shallot, lemon zest, and mustard. Slowly whisk in oil. Season with salt and pepper.

Wash asparagus well, snap off ends. Drizzle asparagus with a few tablespoons of the vinaigrette and season evenly with salt.

Grill asparagus and the prosciutto over direct medium heat, with the lid closed as much as possible, until the asparagus is tender and the prosciutto is crisp, turning once or twice, 6 to 8 minutes for the asparagus and 1 to 2 minutes for the prosciutto. Arrange asparagus on a platter, spoon on remaining vinaigrette, and crumble the crispy prosciutto on top.

©2008 Weber-Stephen Products Co. Recipe from Weber's Way to Grill™ by Jamie Purviance. Used with permission.

TIPS:

- The fresher the better, asparagus is best cooked the day you buy it. To store any longer, cut 1 inch (2.5 cm) or so off the ends and wrap the ends in wet paper towel and store in plastic bag; or store like flowers, upright in 1 inch (2.5 cm) of water in a container and cover with plastic.
- Roasting and grilling concentrate the flavour of most foods, particularly vegetables that are often cooked in water, such as asparagus. Toss in a little oil, season to taste and grill until tender-crisp but bright green. For doneness, go by looks and texture rather than time.
- Good for you — asparagus is high in folate, a source of vitamin C and A, iron, phosphorus, potassium, thiamine and riboflavin. Low in calories, each spear has about eight calories.

Three cheers for these beers

As the first fair-weather long weekend of the year is on the horizon and the drinking is easy. Whether it's Molson, Labatt, Keith's, or any one of the dozens of excellent microbrews (with a hometown shout out to Nova Scotia's Garrison and Propeller breweries) made across our vast piece of geography, nothing goes better with a Canadian three-day than a few too many cold ones.

I'll be in the land of Queen Victoria and the neighbourhood locals for most of the celebration: Spending some time tasting my way around the London International Wine Fair. That doesn't mean I won't indulge in a brew or two during my travels.

I've had the chance to tour London's own Fuller's Brewery in Chiswick more than once and their ESB (500 ml, $2.50 - $3.99) — which stands for Extra Special Bitter — is a classic, full-bodied malt-fest with plenty of lively hopes and, you guessed it, bitterness. Combine a pint with your favourite barbecued grub this weekend. If European lagers from the mainland are more your style, try the Czech Republic's Czechvar (500 ml, $2.55 - $3.05) with goulash, roast pork or just about anything. Its golden colour and rich, concentrated flavour oozes drinkability.

Prices reflect the range across the country. Some products may not be available in all provinces.

Canadian Living recipe of the month

Grilled Mustard Sage Pork Tenderloin and Potato Salad

INGREDIENTS:

- 2 tbsp (25 ml) each Dijon mustard and grainy mustard
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) minced fresh sage (or 1/2 tsp/2 ml dried)
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) each extra-virgin olive oil and cider vinegar
- 1 tsp (5 ml) packed brown sugar
- 2 small cloves garlic, minced
- 1 lb (500 g) pork tenderloin
- 1/2 tsp (2 ml) each salt and pepper
- 1 lb (500 g) mini red potatoes, quartered
- 2 tbsp (25 ml) light mayonnaise
- 2 tbsp (25 ml) chopped gherkin pickles
- 2 green onions, chopped

METHOD:

In glass bowl, combine Dijon and grainy mustards, sage, oil, vinegar, sugar and garlic. Remove 1 tbsp (15 ml) and reserve for potato salad. Add pork to bowl, turning to coat. Cover and refrigerate for 10 minutes or for up to 8 hours.

Place pork on greased grill over medium heat; close lid and grill, turning once, until juices run clear when pork is pierced and just a hint of pink remains inside, about 20 minutes. Sprinkle with half each of the salt and pepper. Let stand for 5 minutes before slicing.

Meanwhile, in saucepan of boiling salted water, cover and cook potatoes until tender, about 10 minutes. Drain; let cool.

In bowl, combine mayonnaise, pickles, green onions, remaining salt and pepper, and reserved mustard mixture. Add potatoes; toss to coat. Serve with pork.

Jeanne Beker is the ultimate fashion multi-tasker

BRIAN COULTON
for Metro Canada

There was a time Jeanne Beker recalls when specialization intimidated success.

"They used to say 'Jack of all trades, master of none!'" an energetic Beker says with a mocking nasal voice in her downtown Toronto office. "I think it's a very old fashioned notion now. It would be a pretty boring life for me if I was only involved in one medium."

Boring, for the Canadian fashion icon, would make most beat. Beker is the long-time face of Fashion Television, editor-in-chief of FQ and Sir magazines, author of three books, fashion columnist for The Globe and Mail and a judge on CTV reality show Canada's Next Top Model, its third season set to premiere on May 26.

The array of multimedia hats Beker wears today (which surely match those in her closet) stems from her fundamental passion for communication. Before media, Beker was an actress, once studying mime in Paris under Marcel Marceau's teacher Étienne Decroux. It wasn't until 1975, when she moved to St. John's, Nfld., that she

"Fashion keeps you from ever growing old in some ways, because it's constantly changing."

Jeanne Beker,
Canada's Next Top
Model judge

"I was the only mime artist in the province and I got a job in radio," she says with irony. "That's just the proof that I was really all about communication, first and foremost."

St. John's became Toronto, radio turned into television and Beker found herself on the big city small screen, hosting The New Music with CNN-bound JD Roberts. But after meeting all of her youthful rock idols ("I thought, if I interview Rod Stewart once more, I'll lose it!" she quips), Beker, then in her early 30s, says she desired doing something more "age appropriate."

"Fashion's the kind of thing you can grow old in... Actually, fashion keeps you from ever growing old in some ways, because it's constantly changing. It looked like the next big thing, and we were right."

That prediction has held strong for 24 years, since Fashion Television was created (a run Beker says she'd never have believed if told back then). Today, she continues to be seen running about the streets of the world's fashion capitals with her cameraman and a microphone in hand, reporting from runway shows and interviewing befriended designers from Gaultier to Valentino. But despite her years in the business, Beker says she'll never tire of fashion.

"The only constant in fashion is change. The personalities — the egos, the icons and the drama in fashion — it's all so irresistible. To me, it's the most colourful arena I can imagine."

But, it's also one Beker doesn't know how to progress further in. "I think about it every night!" she says, slapping her desk. She says she only hopes to continue to present popular culture's cutting edge, in a motley manner.

"It's about really reaching out and communicating to people and looking at situations in a multitude of different ways. That's what makes things so compelling — when there are all these different textures to play with."

A blooming film success

Brainy, beautiful — and funny! Rachel Weisz pulls off a cinematic hat trick

By ADAM NAYMAN
Contributing Writer

Listening to Rachel Weisz, one gets the impression that you'd have to get up pretty early in the morning to put one over on her: In the decade since her breakthrough performance as Brendan Fraser's beloved in The Mummy, the dark-eyed Cambridge University grad has developed a reputation as one of Hollywood's brainiest (and most outspoken) leading ladies. But in Rian Johnson's new comedy, The Brothers Bloom, she plays somebody who's hopelessly slow on the take: An endearingly dizzy and sheltered heiress named Penelope who falls precariously in love with a sad-eyed con man (Adrien Brody), much to the chagrin of the latter's brother (Mark Ruffalo), who sees her as just another mark.

"Penelope is kind of gullible," Weisz says — over the phone from New York, where she lives with her boyfriend, director Darren Aronofsky, and their three year-old son, Henry Chance. "She's impressionable and naive — whatever you want to call it. Penelope is also quite literal, and literal can be very funny. I think that it's a rich vein for comedy."

Weisz also notes that shifting into sweetheart mode can be exhausting. "By the end," she says, sighing, "I had used up my entire quota for enthusiasm and wide-eyedness — I was just this cynical wreck. It was like I'd gotten five years' worth of enthusiasm out in one go!"

After France's years of deprivation during the German occupation, Parisian couture soared in the late 1940s when Christian Dior revealed his New Look. What is astonishing is that the California trio is even more upset and angry about the state of their country, even though a new U.S. president is in power. In this three-act rock opera, the band rails against religion, and alienation among other things. Musically, this is as tight as they've ever been, though some of the more classic rock sounding tracks aren't as strong as the punk-influenced tunes.

their competition was limited to a handful of acts. Now, everyone's playing loud, big beat dance music, so the duo has to step it up if they want to stay relevant. They've tried to do just that by enlisting a bevy of popular indie artists, including Metric's Emily Haines, to sing over their slick electro sounds. While it works to some degree — Matisyahu's Drown in the Now might be his best work yet — it's missing the attack and originality that their younger contemporaries have mastered.

LEGEND HAS DRESSED the New York Dolls up as an early '70s precursor to both punk and glam rock, a band far ahead of its time sacrificed on a pyre of excess and addiction before achieving its due. Truth is the New York Dolls were simply a great garage band driven with amphetamine-fueled energy and a booze-sodden need to shock. More than 35 years later, we have our second reunion album, featuring the two surviving members David Johansen and Sylvain Sylvain, backed by three other guys (Steve Conte, Brian Delaney and Sam Yaffa). Oddly enough, the Dolls have now recorded as many reunion discs as the band released back in its heyday. The difference here is that Todd Rundgren, the producer behind the Dolls' 1973 debut, has returned. He captures that garage sound perfectly and there are moments here that live up to the legend, especially on the title track. But it's impossible to bring back that reckless — and ultimately destructive — energy. Without it, Johansen is only a pale imitation of the old Jagger swagger, more lips than voice.

Star Trek sets Imax record

Imax Corp said yesterday its Star Trek screenings grossed a record $8.5 million during the film's first weekend, even as some purists complained that the company's big screens were not big enough.

The hotly anticipated science fiction movie garnered $79.2 million at U.S. and Canadian box offices over the weekend, and 11 per cent of that figure came from Imax screens.

Imax said that was significant because its screens accounted for less than two per cent of the venues for Star Trek.

The Star Trek Imax contribution shows that moviegoers are pleased with the company's theatre experience, chief executive Richard Gelfond told Reuters.

"There's no indication at all that the word of mouth is anything but positive," he said.

But this week, the company also faced some criticism from a Hollywood actor who wrote in an expletive-laden blog that he felt

"These new Imax theatres are really just nice digital screens with good sound, but they are not Imax, in that they don't have the huge 72-foot gigantic screen which people would expect," said Aziz Ansari, a co-star of the new NBC show Parks and Recreation.

The actor's comments echoed earlier criticism from purists who say Imax should re-brand its smaller screens in multiplexes to differentiate them from larger Imax screens, found mostly in museums and science centres. REUTERS

Office star hails finale, 100-episode milestone

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

It's the fifth season finale of NBC's The Office tonight — and the sitcom's 100th episode. The folks at Dunder Mifflin have come a long way from their early days, when few thought it would last — including the show's cast.

"I think at best, my guess would've been 48 (episodes) at most," John Krasinski, who plays Jim on the series, tells Metro.

Krasinski has been very busy, fitting feature films into his Office schedule whenever possible. Next month he stars in Away We Go, directed by Sam Mendes — who, it turns out, originally tried to talk Krasinski out of taking his role on the Office.

"His whole thing was, 'You don't touch the un-touchable. You don't re-sing a Beatles song. You leave it.' And he thought the English version was perfect," Krasinski explains. "The problem was I agreed with him."

Luckily, they were both wrong. Krasinski says he's thrilled with tonight's finale. "The finale's always really fun for Jim and Pam, because they always write amazing stuff for us," he says, though he won't budge on any potential wedding plans between the two characters.

All Krasinski really wants now for the show is the chance to decide when it will end, much like ABC's Lost was allowed to do. "I hope we get the opportunity to call our last season, to pull a Babe Ruth and point to the outfield wall," he says.

Roth renewed

Fox ordered a second, 13-episode season of the midseason entry Lie to Me, starring Tim Roth, this week. More details of its fall season will be revealed next week. TVGUIDE.COM

Discovery plans further hi-def nature series

TELEVISION In the wake of the wildly popular Planet Earth, Discovery Channel is planning another high-definition documentary nature series.

The network is teaming with Keith Scholey, the former head of the BBC's Natural History Unit, for a multiyear production deal to capture the world continent by continent. First up, under the working title Wild Planet: North America, is a seven-part series that starts filming this year.

The production will use the cutting-edge filming techniques popularized in the Planet Earth series.

Rolling Stone cancels its Mexico edition

PUBLISHING Rolling Stone's Mexico edition is closing after seven years because of the recession. The Spanish-language monthly franchise is published by Progreso Mexico, which is being shuttered by its Grupo Prisa parent company.

"The world financial situation prevents us from continuing to work as we have," said Progreso Mexico director general Benjamin Salcedo. Local versions of Rolling Stone are also published in Spain, Brazil and Argentina.

Fox picks up two more fall series

TELEVISION In preparation for its "adfront" presentation to advertisers next week, Fox has picked up two new series: The comic-book drama Human Target and the single-camera comedy Sons of Tucson. Based on the DC Comics title, Target, penned by Jon Steinberg, centres on Christopher Chance (Mark Valley), a mysterious freelancer who assumes the identities of people in danger, becoming the "human target." Fox already had two new series in the can for the fall: The animated comedy Cleveland and the comedy-drama Glee.

Unauthorized Swayze bio addresses cancer battle

A new biography of Patrick Swayze describes how the actor worked 12 hour days without pain killers to shoot a TV series after he was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer.

The biography, called Patrick Swayze: One Last Dance, says Swayze was determined to work as hard as ever on the U.S. TV crime drama The Beast, despite being diagnosed in early 2008 with pancreatic cancer, which has a less than five per cent chance of survival.

"His work ethic was such that even though he was in terrible pain during the shooting of The Beast, he took only one day off and refused to take pain killers," said the biography's author Wendy Leigh. "He didn't want anything at all to befuddle his acting performance or his mind."

In the book one of the show's producer recalls how Swayze, who rose to fame showing off his brawny physique playing a dance instructor in the hit 1987 movie Dirty Dancing, told producers he had some "horrible news" but would go on with the show. "He said: I'm in great condition. I'm a cowboy. I'm a dancer. I'll beat this," producer Jamie Erlich is quoted as saying in the book.

Patrick Swayze: One Last Dance by Wendy Leigh is published by Simon & Schuster.

Since then, Swayze, 56, told Barbara Walters in an interview that aired in January he was "going through hell" and fans were shocked when Walters asked how long he had to live. "He actually asked Barbara Walters to ask him that heartbreaking question," Leigh said. "Because Patrick wants it all out there, he has always been open-hearted."

The book also covers Swayze's upbringing in Texas and former ambitions as a professional dancer and football player.

It points to his other pivotal role in the 1990 movie Ghost, and says on the set of Dirty Dancing he was disgruntled that he had to tone down his dancing. The book, which is unauthorized and does not include interviews with Swayze, affirms his dislike of a line from that film, "Nobody puts Baby in the corner," which has been voted in various polls as one of the worst lines in film history.

Swayze and his wife Lisa Niemi are working on their own memoir.

Vanessa to bare all on screen?

RATED R You may be seeing a lot more of Vanessa Hudgens in the future, usmagazine.com reports.

"I will show nudity in a film when the time is right," the 20-year-old High School Musical star tells E! Online.

"If it's an amazing movie that I'm really passionate about and that's what it calls for, then we'll see," she added.

The actress also has appeared nude in 2007, in photos that leaked online.

From drug to rap addiction

QUOTABLE Eminem wanted to kill himself at the height of his addiction problems, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The rapper — who is set to release his new album following a three-year-break from music — admits he briefly considered committing suicide while struggling with his alcohol and drug problems.

He told British TV talk-show host Jonathan Ross: "I just wasn't taking care of myself, at times I wanted to just give it up."

"I was in a dark place. I wanted to pull back from the spotlight to reassess my whole career," he added. "I got sober but it was pretty rough. A couple of years were bad for me."

The 36-year-old hip-hop star is thrilled with his new material and insists he is only addicted to work these days.

He said: "I almost feel like a little kid again with rap. Rap was my drug. It used to get me high and then it stopped getting me high. Then I had to resort to other things to make me feel that ... now rap's getting me high again."

K-Fed can't get enough from Brit?

SPENDER NOT SAVER Kevin Federline reportedly can't make ends meet with the $40,000 US a month he receives from ex-wife Britney Spears.

The singer pays Federline $20,000 a month for child support, plus an additional $5,000 a week while she's on tour.

But according to the National Enquirer, it's not enough to cover his monthly expenses: $7,500 for rent on his Encino home, $2,000 for food, $1,500 for utilities, $800 for booze, $2,800 for a nanny for their two sons and $3,000 for body-guards.

"Kevin has blown through millions of dollars," a source says. "When he and Britney divorced, Kevin continued the superstar lifestyle, and he spends all the money that he gets."

Hugh wants own Rainbow Tribe

FAMILY ASPIRATIONS

Looks like Hugh Jackman is set to expand his family. The actor, who's already adopted two children with wife Debo-

"Hugh is a big believer in adoption — not just personally, but from a world-view of extending help to parentless children," a source tells the National Enquirer. "They are adopting another child now, and plan to welcome a fourth ... It has become their mission."

Dad giving up on Amy?

DAD'S LIMITS Amy Winehouse's dad, Mitch, has stood by his daughter through her troubles with drugs. But now that those have been replaced with an alleged alcohol addiction, he says he's not sure he can continue to stick around.

"After she almost died twice from drug-related problems, to see her walking, smiling — she has progressed so much," Mitch says in a new TV documentary, according to Marie Claire U.K.

"But now, if it's alcohol instead of hard drugs — I don't think I can go through that again. I've decided to distance myself, and whatever happens, happens," he said.

"It's her life. It's her career. It's her decision."

LiLo avoids burglary

RICH AND FAMOUS Burglars targeted Lindsay Lohan's home, femalefirst.co.uk reports. Police were called to the actress' Los Angeles property at about 3 p.m. on Tuesday after a security alarm at the property was set off.

A police officer said: "It was an attempted burglary. No property was taken. There was evidence that someone tried to get in her house, but there's no evidence that they actually got inside or removed any of her property."

After being alerted to a problem by the property's alarm company, police went to investigate, and found evidence of an attempted break-in, including pry-marks on a door and damage to a window.

E! News has reported a man who has allegedly been stalking the 22-year-old star and making threats against her is a "person of interest" in the case.

Metro Recipe of the Day

Mighty Burger

INGREDIENTS:

- Oil for greasing
  - 2/3 lb (300 g) lean ground lamb
  - 2/3 lb (300 g) lean ground pork
  - 2 tsp (10 ml) dried Italian herb mix, or mixed herbs
  - 1 small egg
  - 3 tbsp (45 ml) (85g) fresh breadcrumbs
  - Salt and black pepper
  - A few drops of Worcestershire sauce
  - 2 tbsp (25 ml) olive oil
  - 1 medium onion
  - 1 large clove garlic
  - 1-2 tsp (10 ml) chili powder
  - 1 small red pepper
  - 2 tomatoes
  - 3 oz (85 g) button mushrooms
  - 1/4 lb (110 g) mozzarella cheese
  - 1/4 lb (110 g) cheddar cheese
- METHOD:
1. Preheat oven to 375 F (190 C). Lightly oil 10-in. (25-cm) pizza sheet or baking pan.
  2. Put meat into bowl. Add herbs, then stir in egg, breadcrumbs, salt, pepper and good splash of Worcestershire sauce. Mix well together.
  3. Press mixture evenly onto pizza sheet, or put onto baking tray and shape into 10-in. (25-cm) round. Cook burger in oven for 15-20 minutes.

4. Meanwhile, heat olive oil in frying pan. Peel and chop onion and garlic. Add to oil and fry until soft, 5 minutes. Stir in chili powder and remove from heat.
5. Rinse pepper and tomatoes and clean mushrooms. Deseed and dice pepper, then slice tomatoes and mushrooms. Cut mozzarella into thin slices and grate cheddar.
6. Remove burger from oven and drain off liquid; increase oven temperature to 425 F (220 C).
7. Spread onion mixture over burger. Add pepper, tomatoes and mushrooms. Sprinkle cheese on top. Bake for 5 minutes, or until cheese melts. Serve in wedges with crusty bread, salad and ketchup.

Make the world sit up and take notice of you today. Do something that no one can possibly ignore. It's time to get yourself noticed again.

LIBRA

SEPT 23-OCT 23
Anyone who thinks you've not been your happy-go-lucky self lately will have to revise their opinion in the next few days as the smile returns to your face.

TAURUS

APRIL 21-MAY 21
Sometimes it's nice to go with the flow and let others call the tune; this is one of those times. If you get lost in the crowd today it won't worry you.

SCORPIO

OCT 24-NOV 22
What you have to do today may make you unpopular but you won't shirk responsibilities for the sake of people whose respect you can live without.

GEMINI

MAY 22-JUNE 21
You may feel a need to prove yourself but you also need to be realistic about what you can achieve. Aim high today but don't lose sight of who you are.

SAGITTARIUS

NOV 23-DEC 21
You want to support a plan that means a lot to a friend but you suspect it may not be good for them or you. Go through it with them point by point.

CANCER

JUNE 22-JULY 22
You may feel out of your depth but it's nothing to worry about, so don't be discouraged. Others may know more but they don't have your tenacity or sensitivity.

CAPRICORN

DEC 22-JAN 20
Not everyone who makes you an offer is out to steal your money. Someone who approaches you with a money-making idea should be listened to.

LEO

JULY 23-AUG 23
You're determined to make up for lost time and the best way to do that is to have a good time. But make time too for those who are still stuck.

AQUARIUS

JAN 21-FEB 18
If you value your peace of mind you must not get involved in other people's relationship problems, not even if they ask you to mediate.

VIRGO

AUG 24-SEPT 22
Others may say you should suppress your natural instincts but you know you won't be happy if you do, so ignore their advice and do what feels right to you.

PISCES

FEB 19-MARCH 20
You will feel much better about yourself today if you forget about your duties and chores for a while and spend time doing what makes you feel happy.
